Says Had Public Been En- lightened They Would Not Tolerate Such Organ- ization.

(By The Associated Press.)
MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 25.—(Rear Admiral Sims in an address here today declared that the navy department had the same organization as during the war and with such an organization you can neither prepare for war nor fight a war. He said if the public had been enlightened, it would not tolerate such an organization. Newspapers should employ military experts as writers.

Crew Held For Captain's Death

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 24.—All of the members of the crew of the American schooner Lewis Brothers are in jail here tonight and will be kept under surveillance until the mystery surrounding the death of Capt. L. E. Chute, master of the schooner, is cleared up.

When the tanker Sabine Sun sighted the schooner early yesterday and in response to signals sent a boat crew aboard. Mate V. Brasklerhurst stated that Chute had been killed and there was no one on board capable of sailing the craft to port. The Lewis Brothers were bound from Mobile to a Spanish port. Mate H. Schorn, of the tanker, remained on board and brought the schooner here, arriving late yesterday.

But an autopsy today showed three pistol wounds in Chute's body, any one of which would have proved fatal. On this report of the coroner's physician, a federal deputy marshal and posse boarded the schooner to arrest the crew. The crew showed fight and surrendered only when pistols were drawn.

Brasklerhurst had to be knocked down with a pistol before he gave in, according to the federal officers.

At the inquest this afternoon the men gave conflicting testimony. Brasklerhurst stated that the captain and an Italian sailor, Amore Giuseppe, had quarreled and the captain had sworn he would leave the Italian overboard. This statement was denied by Giuseppe and other members of the crew when they were examined. The inquest was not completed today and will be resumed tomorrow. Meanwhile the members of the crew are being confined in separate cells. The authorities say they are satisfied that the ship's commander was murdered.

An odd feature is that Brasklerhurst, who has a mate's license, confessed inability to navigate and was preparing to abandon ship when the tanker came up.

Shoots Husband Not Concerned

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Woman Says She Never Lets Anybody Hurt Her.

ASHEVILLE, Feb. 24.—Preston Baldwin, 35, public service driver, was shot and probably fatally wounded by his wife, formerly Alice Prichard, at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The shooting occurred in front of the residence of Mrs. Baldwin in the Hick Creek section two miles from Asheville.

Four shots were fired by the woman from a .35-caliber Smith and Wesson pistol, and all took effect.

At an early hour this morning Baldwin was lying in a local hospital, his condition so critical physicians were unable to operate, with two bullets in his chest and two in the head.

An hour after the shooting members of the police and sheriff's departments reached the home of Mrs. Baldwin. She was eating breakfast.

They told her she was wanted for the shooting of her husband.

"All right, I knew you'd come, but wait until I finish eating," she told them.

Between bites she asked them if Baldwin was seriously hurt, and where he had been hit.

She was turned over to the sheriff's department, and placed in the county jail, where she is held without bond pending the outcome of her husband's wounds. The charge is assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

The sheriff has the statement of Mrs. Baldwin in which she admits the shooting and assigns reasons.

"I had to do it, and he had it coming to him," she told the sheriff. "He was stooping to pick up a rock, and I never let anybody hurt me if I can help it."

The two have been married for a number of years, but have lived separate lives for some time, according to officers. They recently lived together on Spring street here.

Reiterates Charges Against Mellon

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 24.—Charges that Secretary Mellon was ineligible to head the treasury department because of business connections were reiterated in the Senate today by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, who called upon Mr. Mellon to make an "explicit statement" for the subject. Such a statement, Senator Watson said, the cabinet officer owes to the President, the Senate and the country.

Secretary Mellon's recent statement that he had resigned official connections with his business concerns before becoming secretary of the treasury was said by Senator Watson to be unsatisfactory and to give the country the impression that he (Mr. Mellon) was in error in the controversy.

Senator Watson reiterated alleged connections of Secretary Mellon with banks, railroads, insurance companies and manufacturing corporations and declared Mr. Mellon should make an explicit statement as to whether he had resigned from them.

Fondles Wife With Ax and She Likes It

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—When Oscar Anderson, 73 Hopley street, Brooklyn, and his wife, Eugenia, called on friends at 145 Conover street, Brooklyn, yesterday, they began to play with each other.

Anderson tapped his wife on the head with an axe. An ambulance surgeon was taking nine stitches in Mrs. Anderson's forehead. Anderson was locked up for felonious assault.

Mrs. Anderson told Magistrate Elmer in Brooklyn yesterday that she wished people would mind their own business.

"If I had not been unconscious," she said indignantly, "I would never have permitted them to call the police."

"We were just making love," Anderson said. "He got his axe and took his wife home."

Boston's Liquor Drive Is Over

Fines Total Nearly $7,000 in Court — Ninety-Three Cases Disposed of.

South Boston's campaign against alleged bootleggers which began last December has finally been wound up, after weeks of diligent work by special detectives together with police officers. Ninety-three cases were dealt with and fines totalling nearly $7,000 imposed. The following cases were only six appeals noted. All cases were from the South Boston paper gives more details of the crusade and its result.

"The widely-discussed, frequently criticized, sometimes-praised and oftentimes-misrepresented 'clean-up' which started here last December and culminated last week in the arrest of scores of alleged bootleggers was wound up Tuesday morning of this week as far as the local court is concerned. A total of 93 warrants were issued against 61 persons and the cases were all either tried or submitted. Only about a dozen of the defendants pleaded not guilty, and there were only six appeals noted. All cases were for violation of the prohibition law.

"The defendants were fairly equally divided between males and females, being 52 of the former and 41 of the latter, including two negro women. The fines assessed, allowing for all reductions and adding court costs, totalled $6,970.00, of which $3,012.00 was against white men and $3,958.00 was against negroes. The largest number of warrants against one person was six, while several had three or four charges to answer.

"Believing that no good cause can be served by the publication of a complete list of those arrested, and feeling that it would not be fair to mention some without naming them all, the Gazette will not give details regarding any of the cases. Already a great many newspapers, both regarding the local crusade have appeared in out-of-town newspapers, notably in the Danville Register, whereby the town has gained much undesirable notoriety.

"At the same time, while dealing out punishment with no faltering hand has at the same time tempered justice with mercy in nearly every case. In every case unless an appeal was noted, the sentence was suspended, the defendants being put under bond for their good behavior. In one case where a fine of $6,000 with a three year jail sentence was imposed, this was reduced to $200 and costs and the man was released on bond.

"About a dozen cases were withheld awaiting further developments. The trials, which consumed six sessions of the court, were attended by large crowds of interested spectators and were without exciting incidents, although nothing of a very alarming nature occurred. Perhaps the nearest approach to real excitement was last Friday morning when there occurred the famous 'shooting' incident, which was given much prominence in the Danville newspapers. As far as can be learned the facts in this case were these:

"An argument, carried on in undertone, arose in the courtroom between one of the detectives and one of the defendants during which the detective was seen to put his hand in his hip pocket, as if about to draw a pistol. The defendant, who was gathered around the two men and at a moment they had quieted down and the incident was apparently over. Suddenly a woman who was present in the courtroom as a spectator arose and interrupted the quiet that he had overheard one of the detectives say that if any trouble started they would 'shoot up the place'.

"At this, the citizen says the mayor told the chief of police to put him out, while the mayor says he told the chief to 'take charge of the matter.' But as it may, the citizen led the courtroom, going through the mayor's office and into the office of the assistant Harris, beyond, two of the detectives following him. In the meantime, two other citizens in the courtroom, seeing the three men leave, followed them, and reaching the door of the courtroom, they found a locked door. Obtaining a key from Treasurer Hardy they entered the room where they found the citizen had backed one of the detectives against a railing and was holding him by the elbows with his arms above his head.

"The entrance of the other citizens,

Arrest Boy For Queer Movements

When Joe Dalton, a 16-year-old boy, was walking down Market street about 4 o'clock on Monday morning about 4 o'clock in an alleyway back of the Commercial bank building, he suddenly lay down and pretended he was asleep. Dalton was arrested as a vagrant and is being held until word is received from his father at Altavista.

The officer was walking down Market street about 4 o'clock and looking up the alley, saw a dim figure in the dark moving around slowly just at the rear entrance of Clarke's sporting goods store. The policeman watched for a few minutes and then proceeded up the alley to investigate. When Mayberry, convicted of a few years ago, he quickly threw himself on the ground and pretended to be asleep. The officer took him in charge and questioned him as to his presence in such a place at that hour acting so queerly. The boy said that his home was in Altavista and that he came here to secure work. He stated that he arrived the night before and had no place to go and decided to go behind the store and sleep.

Young Dalton is said to be the son of a prominent family and word will be sent to them during the course of the day.

Joint Meeting This Afternoon

A joint meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the Young Men's Business Club is being held this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce. Two matters are being considered. The first pertains to the consummation of the D. M. I. drive, and the second is concerning the proposed $12,000,000 bond issue reported favorable from the road committee of the State Senate yesterday.

Just what action the joint meeting will take in these two matters is not known. It is probable that some definite means for raising the rest of the $15,000 for the D. M. I. drive will be proposed and adopted.

On the road question it is probable that no action will be taken until further information about the proposed bond issue has been obtained, though it is possible that the proposition will receive the endorsement of the meeting.

Girl Kills Man During Trial

WACO, Texas, Feb. 24.—Miss Marjorie Matthews, 17 years old, shot and instantly killed J. S. Crosslin today during proceedings in the district court here. He was charged with attacking the girl two years ago.

Crosslin, aged 59 years, was tried, convicted and sentenced to nine years in the penitentiary, but the case was reversed on an error in the admission of testimony, and remanded for trial. The preliminaries had been completed and Miss Matthews had been called to the witness stand.

"He disgraced me, ruined my health and deprived me of school privileges," she stated after the killing. "But he will never ruin another girl."

Miss Matthews walked to the witness chair, then turned, with a pistol in her hand, and fired straight at Crosslin, who sat in a chair beside his attorney 15 feet away. She then took two or three steps forward and fired again. Advancing to within three feet of the man who had collapsed in his chair, she shot a third time, the bullet penetrating his side.

Officer Burton seized the girl in his arms and carried her out of the court room. He took the weapon from her and locked her in a room of the sheriff's office.

EVERY MEMBER CANVASS MAR. 12

Throughout the Southern Presbyterian Church representing about 400,000 members, arrangements are being completed for the every member canvass which takes place on March 12th, the date fixed by the general assembly of that denomination. This system was adopted by the church several years ago and is declared by church officers to be the most business-like way of handling church finances. The stewardship committee this year is giving the plan wide publicity in order that the church will possibly every church will adopt the system. Letters have been sent to all managers of synods and special editions of church papers will be issued later pointing out its benefits and it is planned to make use of the Laymen's Association in many of the churches to present the idea in a sure manner. One of the encouraging features of the plan is the fact that many churches that are without a supply use it and make reports regularly on their financial condition.

It is planned this year to hold general assemblies for the general assembly at the meeting of that body in Charleston, West Virginia, in May. Each church will report to the presbytery manager by March 27th who in turn will report to the synodical manager. The canvass will not later than April 4th. By using this method, the church will know about how much may be expected for benevolent causes during the year commencing April 1, 1922.

D. M. I. DRIVE GOAL NOT REACHED; BUT IS NOT ABANDONED

Two Days Canvass Less Than $8,500, With More in Prospect Soon.

FINAL RESULTS
Friday's Results
A. D. Starling	222.00	1332.00
J. M. Seegar	140.00	537.00
M. K. Harris	472.50	727.00
W. P. Boatwright	10.00	245.00
A. D. Keen	215.00	223.00
H. L. Boatwright	15.00	593.00
J. M. Thomas	92.00	393.00
T. S. Williamson	180.00	375.00
J. B. Harvie	35.00	397.00
R. C. Thompson		100.00
W. E. Hill	662.00	662.00
H. M. Martin	308.00	2,115.00
H. F. Day		100.00
Total	3,049.50	8,201.50

These figures summarize the results of the efforts of the team soliciting funds to liquidate the debt of the Danville Military Institute and place it upon a footing of assured permanent maintenance. It will be seen that the two-day canvass netted only a little more than $8,200, so far as has been reported. That sum will be supplemented somewhat by contributions by the Danville Traction and Power company and Danville Ice company and possibly by other organizations. A number of individual subscriptions are also in prospect, and it is not improbable that some of the liberal subscribers will supplement their contributions.

Executive Committee Appeal

In this connection the executive committee directing the drive issued the following statement yesterday evening:

The Executive Committee in charge of the D. M. I. drive have determined that efforts shall be continued until the full amount required is secured. The total thus far turned in indicates that $8,798.50 is yet to be raised.

Due to sickness, and the fact that a good many team workers were out of the city during the two days active canvass, the drive has not been as thoroughly canvassed as would otherwise have been the case. While there will be no active all day campaign today, plans are being matured whereby such additional effort as may be necessary will be undertaken during the coming week.

The City of Danville has not heretofore failed in a community effort of this nature, and the civic or patriotic organizations who have sponsored this drive have determined that no stone shall be left unturned until a full victory shall have been secured.

It is impossible to think that the men who are making Danville will be satisfied to let it go out to the world that this good city refused to put up so small an amount as $15,000.00 in order to make sure of its future. The drive will be a splendid business investment and a social and cultural asset to the community as long as time lasts.

In this solemn resolve we invite the co-operation and support of all forward-looking citizens who are willing to sacrifice the present, if necessary to make good the future of our home town.

A MARTHA WASHINGTON TEA

On the afternoon of the 22nd the ladies of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Jefferson Avenue Christian church gave a Martha Washington tea in the Sunday school building and ladies' parlors adjoining. Between fifty and sixty women were present. There was a brief but highly enjoyable literary-musical program. This was followed by refreshments consisting of tea and individual cakes covered with white icing, surrounded by a red maraschino cherry, and after that a social hour.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, lighted red candles, and paper hangers of various sizes, including smaller ones given to the guests as souvenirs. Also pictures of George and Martha Washington and Mr. Vernon.

The officers and division leaders of the society—Mesdames Garrison, Blodgett, Webster, Campbell, McKinnon, Foster, Davis and Riley—were hostesses of the occasion and were dressed after the manner of fashion of colonial times, as were also many of the guests.

Makes Millions Helping Others

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—"He's just a pipe dreamer"—people said that of John Hertz 20 years ago.

Today, at 44, Hertz is a multimillionaire. And all because he cashed in on his dreams!

He's head of the Chicago Yellow Cab company. That company carried 30,000,000 passengers last year. It owns 1500 cabs and other property worth more than $15,000,000.

And he's a pioneer in introducing cabs into the taxicab business. Yellow patrons are treated with the utmost consideration—never browbeaten or overcharged, Hertz says.

Twenty years ago Hertz was an auto salesman. He found most of his profit tied up in a growing heap of second-hand cars taken in exchange for new ones.

It was a desperate situation. But Hertz thought he saw a way out.

"Use the old cars to run an auto ferry," he said.

His partners laughed. For in those days the automobile was still somewhat of a curiosity and horse wags blundered to prevent shying at the "durned contraptions."

Hertz gave his idea a test. His lively with its 40 antiquated cars was a success.

He dreamed further. He gave up selling cars altogether and embarked as a pioneer in the taxicab business.

The Yellow Taxicab Company has grown from that.

"Treat the other fellow square. Do something for him and he'll reciprocate"—that's Hertz business philosophy.

In practice that means:

"That every taxi driver is a partner in the business and can buy as much stock as he wants and can pay for."

"That premiums are paid every day."

TEMPLE GRAVES

ON ARMAGEDDON

John Temple Graves, native South Carolinian, Georgia journalist and publicist and more recently identified with the Hearst publications and widely known as a platform speaker, gave his lecture, entitled "Armageddon," to an audience of appreciative numbers of about 250 persons at the Municipal hall last night and made a fine impression with his lofty thoughts, swinging rhetorical periods and his rapid-fire delivery. He spoke for an hour and a half or almost that time, but held his hearers without difficulty and at times elicited the tribute of spontaneous applause, notably by his splendid tribute to Woodrow Wilson, incidental to his theme.

Mr. Graves was long regarded as the Georgian successor to Henry W. Grady, with whom he has formerly associated in newspaper work. In his later life he became a great admirer of Theodore Roosevelt and on one occasion proposed that Democrats unite with Republicans in supporting him for the presidency. It was probable from Mr. Roosevelt's remarks in the editorial term that Colonel Graves selected the title of his lecture.

In the lecture last night Armageddon was defined as the final conflict between the forces of altruism on the one side and greed and selfishness on the other; but the speaker led up to his theme slowly and with a somewhat elaborate and general prelude. Referring to the great world conflict of 1914-18, he attributed it to the effects of greed, love of power and of ease and the domination of selfish ideas in government. Incidentally Mr. Graves betrayed that distrust of and hostility toward Great Britain which distinguishes almost all who come into contact with Hearst and under the sway of his ideas and prejudices.

The speaker pictured world conditions preceding the war since the European struggle with a facility and fluency of speech and a deftness of touch which proclaimed his thorough familiarity with his carefully thought and written discourse and manifested an analytic power equal to his powers of dictation. In the elaboration of his sentiment theme Colonel Graves very aptly adopted Thane's adaptation of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and added a fifth horseman which he denominated social unrest. To combat the greed, selfishness, avarice and lust of power which menaced civilization the speaker sounded a rallying cry for the forces of altruism and summoned as an ally whose support would insure the triumph of good over evil the decisive power of public opinion.

Soundings a warning against the insidious appeals of immorality and immorality and greed of gain, the Georgian expressed the conviction that old fashioned religion acting in the old fashioned way on the minds and hearts of men constituted the world's best hope of the ultimate triumph of the forces of altruism. Although in his picture of world conditions the speaker had a decidedly pessimistic tone, Colonel Graves as he advanced toward his climax, proclaimed himself an optimist and proved himself a fervid and eloquent champion of the forces of good in the world-old struggle with the forces of evil.

The speaker's tribute to Wilson and his altruism was balanced with a tribute to President Harding, whom he credited with an ambition to contribute to the forces which were fighting against selfishness and greed in national and world civilization and development.

Colonel Graves is no longer a young man, being in his 65th year, and his voice is neither large nor strong enough to produce the best oratorical effect, and at times last night the "randy" of his enunciation and the lack of distinctness in his speech was difficult for many to catch all he said. The text of his address had been polished to a fine point and his periods balanced and poised to a nicety, so that his effort was a brilliant piece of rhetoric. It would have required a very deliberate speaker perhaps an hour longer to have delivered the full text of the address.

Psychics Asked To Help Trap Firebug Spooks

"Spirits" Loose Cattle and Start Blazes in Nova Scotia "Haunted House," Driving Out Family.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Whatever that has been lighting fires, untying cattle and laying unseen hands on investigating detectives and reporters at the "haunted house" of Antigonish, Nova Scotia, will shortly face the cold, stern probe of science. If the American Institute for Scientific Research, No. 44 East 23rd street, undertakes the investigation requested yesterday in a telegram from the Halifax Herald to Dr. Walter Franklin Pierce, director of the institute.

This is the latest development in a mystery that has routed a family from its home, sent strange rumors through the countryside and finally forced the authorities and the press to attempt at solution, all of which have been baffled.

The "haunted house," as it is now called by general consent, stands in grim isolation at the northern end of Nova Scotia. Antigonish is 100 miles from Halifax.

For 20 years it was the home of Alexander MacDonald and his wife and their adopted daughter, Mary Ellen, and it had been the home of MacDonald father's before him.

In 1916 strange things began to happen on the old MacDonald farm.

At first, which MacDonald had had seen purely in the evening were found loose in the morning. A horse fastened in his own way when he left the animal was fastened in an entirely different way when he returned. He sold the horse and bought another and the same thing happened. The barn got a bad name among the superstitious in that region.

Then trouble began in the house. Fires broke out in unexpected places and at strange times. Coming downstairs one morning to light the fire in the stove, MacDonald found cinders on top of the stove and, looking up, saw a hole burned in the ceiling. A few minutes later he saw that a lounge in an adjoining room was on fire. He rushed to extinguish it and, coming back, found the chair on which he had been sitting ablaze.

Three young men of the neighborhood undertook to solve the mystery by passing a night in the house. They are said to have found 28 separate fires between 6 o'clock in the evening and 8 o'clock next morning. MacDonald and his family left the house next day. The weird situation attracted attention and got some publicity. The marks of numerous fires are plainly to be seen on floor walls.

Reverend Peter Owen Carroll and Harold B. Whidden, a correspondent of the Halifax Herald, joined in an attempt to get at the bottom of the trouble. The passed two nights in the house with the owner and a neighbor.

As a result of their experiences, Carroll declared himself baffled, the newspaper man admits he is puzzled, and a reward of $200 has been offered to any one who can prove the occurrences are not of supernatural origin.

There were no fires while they were there, but the newspaper man felt a strange slap on the arm.

Asks House To Get Harvey Recalled

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—A resolution to have George Harvey recalled as ambassador to British was introduced in the House today by Representative Ryan, Republican, New York. He would have a special committee examine certain statements accredited to Harvey at the Pilgrim Society's dinner for Mr. Balfour.

One of those quoted Harvey as saying:

"Be it known at the outset that for the generosity that impelled the United States to deservise no credit whatever. She made no sacrifice—none. She scrapped many costly warships, she snuffed out the false pride of becoming a first naval power, she snuffed out what was left of her great army, but all these things were done for no sacrifice."

Another statement of Harvey's was: "I speak from information, the exactness of which is beyond all question, the gratification of the British parliament is no more certain than their ratification by the Senate of the United States."

According to Mr. Ryan, "this is an attempt to tell a foreign government exactly what the United States will do with foreign treaties before the foreign relations committee of the Senate has reported to the Senate itself."

"Ambassador George Harvey is reported to have said a year ago to the United States entered the war without any ideals and fought only because it was afraid not to fight."

"The said statements reflect discredit upon the aims and ideals of the spirit that actuates the citizens of the United States."

"The said statements cast reflection upon the principles on which our government is founded."

"The attitude taken by Ambassador George Harvey in his statements at public meetings in Great Britain have a tall time shown him to be a proponent of British aims and ambitions rather than those of the country he is supposed to represent."

"It is the duty of this government to have as a representative a man whose whole thoughts, efforts and ideals must be directed in the interests of this country."

Lingering Suitor Enrages Her Father

DOUGHERTIE, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Charles Osborn, father of pretty Helen Osborn, 17 years old, a popular school girl, waived examination in court today and his case will go to the grand jury. Mr. Osborn is charged with felonious assault by Robert Kipp, 17, a caller on his daughter, who is suffering from a scalp fever which occurred, he alleges, when Osborn hit him on the head with a flatiron.

The case was tried before Justice Velle in Rhinebeck, where the principals live, and so great was the crowd when the trial opened, it was necessary for judge and jury from the Velle house, where the justice often hears cases, to the town hall. Even here the place overflowed with people, as all the young people turned out to hear the case, including the high school civic club.

Kipp lived next door to Helen, having moved here a short time ago. They became fond of one another, and the young man called often and stayed late. It was the fact that he stayed late that incensed Mr. Osborn.

At first he hinted, it is said, that the hour was late, and then invited the young man to depart, but still he lingered. Matters came to a climax when, him and invitations were unheeded, and the father seized a flatiron and hurled it at his daughter's head.

Osborn admits he threw the flatiron, but says he is justified. Mrs. Osborn and Helen say their sympathies must go to poor, young wounded Robert.

"I'll die in jail before I'll spend a cent," the aged man is alleged to have declared. "There's no accounting for women's doings."

Snake in Y. W. C. A. Gives Students Scare

EMPORIA, Kans., Feb. 24.—The serpent in the Garden of Eden could not have raised more commotion than a large bull snake did in the Y. W. C. A. room at the Kansas State Normal when Miss Evelyn Gardner, a student, put her hand into a bookcase and the snake coiled around her wrist.

A dozen women ran out of the room screaming. A student caught the reptile. It is believed the snake crawled into the building last August and hid behind a set of religious books.

DOLLS FROM LUMBER PILES BRING GIRLS A FORTUNE

MISS ROWENA YOUNG AND A GROUP OF "TIMBER TOTS" IN THE FACTORY.

BY ROY GIBBONS

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Art for art's sake alone, grew tedious for two young women here and so Miss Rowena Young and her co-partner, Ora Nelson, veered away from sheer idealism and are now on the road to wealth.

Wasted scraps—broken pieces of wood—in a furniture factory, where they were employed as designers, inspired an inventive faculty now earning them thousands of dollars.

It was following a hard day of toil that Rowena came home to their little studio apartment and said:

"Let's do something that can take us away from this."

And thus were born the "Timber Tots"—newest fashions of the doll world, made from abandoned table legs and cast off bits of brace-bric.

With the increasing popularity of these toys having grown the fortunes of their two creators, who now employ almost 100 workers, salesmen, and distribute their product throughout the world.

"We had several thousand 'Timber Tots' on our hands before started selling," Miss Young said.

"Then we went to the work of marketing our product with a punch. We find no such thing as depression. In the past 10 weeks we have opened more than 400 new accounts."

Both girls—neither is over 25—say that what kept them at work was the idea of vindicating their own estimation of themselves.

"And then, too, we thought it was about time that children be given some sort of new doll," says Miss Young.

"Even wood has a soul when you touch it right. And there is use for everything that is left. The lumber scrap piles will put us on easy street within the next six months."

Navy to Rid Itself Of Great Northern

Sister Ship of Lost Northern Pacific to Be Sold to Private Line.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Secretary of the Navy Denby today announced that the U. S. S. Columbia, formerly the Great Northern, which is serving as flagship of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, will be returned to the shipping board to be sold to private interests as a passenger vessel.

The Columbia was turned over to the navy department by the shipping board last year and $175,000 was spent in converting her from an army transport into a flagship. It is estimated that it would cost approximately $1,000,000 a year to operate and maintain the Columbia as a naval vessel.

As a measure of economy, therefore, Secretary Denby and his advisers have determined to transfer the flag of Admiral Jones to a battleship where it would float in the event of hostilities.

A strong movement to compel the navy to give up the Columbia had developed largely since her sister ship, the Northern Pacific, was destroyed by fire recently off Cape May, N. J.

The Admiral Line paid $1,000,000 for the Northern Pacific, and this and other Pacific Coast lines are expected to bid for the Columbia.

Additional reconconditioning work will be required to fit her for service as a commercial liner. The purchasers of the Northern Pacific had planned to spend $300,000 for reconconditioning that vessel.

Woman Fights Like a Wildcat

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Feb. 24.—Major Smith, a notorious white man, living 15 miles south of here, went to the home of Caleb Bizzell, a negro, last night and tried to shoot up the family and then went back this morning with his grandson and a friend, shot at Caleb Bizzell, and slightly wounding him, according to reports received here.

Sheriff Grant was notified and with Probation Agent Jackson went to Smith's house. Smith's daughter met him at the door, drew a gun and dared him to go in. She fought like a cat when the officers overpowered her. Smith was brought here and is in jail. He is the father of the two Smith boys killed by Officer U. S. Faze.

1922 Girl Best Ever, Claims Mrs. Gerard

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 24.—The modern girl, with all her fads and follies, has found a champion in Mrs. Summer Gerard, sister-in-law of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany.

"The modern girl is all right," said Mrs. Gerard at the Ambassador today. "I like her. Neither because of nor in spite of her cigarette smoking, her sloppy galoshes and her roll-down hose. Those things are no index to her real character. They are merely passing fancies."

"But the modern girl with her frankness, love of outdoors, wholesomeness in thought, suits me and I would not change her for the mid-Victorian damsel with her pinched waists and their over-abundance of clothes and under-abundance of real morality."

Child Falls in Well, But Escapes Unhurt

SALISBURY, N. C., Feb. 24.—A three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shives fell in a well at their home at Faith, Rowan county, but was taken out without having suffered any serious injury. It was fifteen feet from the top of the well to the water and the water was ten feet deep.

Mrs. Shives saw the child fall in and ran some distance to get help. After some little delay the little one was taken out and it was very little the worse for its experience.

Samuel Smith Pays Penalty for Crime Against Goucher College Student.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 24.—Samuel Smith, negro, paid the death penalty in the year of the Towson county jail shortly after dawn today for criminal assault and for shooting Miss Martha Davis Lyon, a Goucher College senior.

The negro was led to the scaffold by prison guards, after spending the night with spiritual advisers. One of the largest crowds ever assembled to witness a hanging at the Towson jail was present in the jail yard.

Unusual precautions taken by Sheriff J. Carroll Ensor to maintain order resulted in the orderly execution of Smith's sentence.

Commissioner Gaither, of the Baltimore city police department, Marshal Stanbury, of the county police force, and Col. E. Austin Baughman, of the state police, provided members of their respective forces and patrol the avenues leading to the jail and grounds. Forty men were on hand to prevent any attempt to frustrate the execution.

SUBJECT TO RESERVATIONS.

The situation in the Senate where the Four Power Treaty is expected to be voted on today has become strikingly analogous to that which confronted Woodrow Wilson when he submitted the Versailles League of Nations to that body. Just as the then president disavowed any reservations which would vitiate the sense of the treaty, so President Harding is reported to be against the writing into the quadruple understanding any reservations. The situation is beclouded with some of the old foes to the League of Nations, the bitter enemies as they were called, likely to be heard from.

President Harding has consented to a reservation which has been drafted already, and which is merely a resume of his speech of transmittal when he went before the Senate and entrusted the Four Power Treaty with it and urged its prompt ratification. In some quarters this is viewed merely as a reaffirmation of the United States

Constitution. It runs:

"The United States understands that under the preamble and terms of this treaty there is no alliance or commitment to armed forces or written or moral obligations to join any defense or commitment to reach any agreement except by the constitutional methods of the United States."

In other words, if at any time a period of international stress destined to try the binding power of the pact it would depend solely upon the vagaries of the existing Congress. Under this construction the international agreement hailed as a means of preserving peace and banishing the boggy idea of future wars in the Far East is an empty thing. If the treaty is not an outright alliance then the Washington conference hailed as such a wonderful achievement has been little more than a frank discussion of delicate internal matters with solemn avowals hinging upon the omnipresent "if" and "provided that" or, in other words, the fateful reservation.

The treaty is not worth the paper it is written on if it is to be subject to various constructions on the part of its signatories.

KRASSIN, TRADE WIZARD, PAVES WAY FOR RUSSIAN COMEBACK

BY MILTON BRONNELL.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—If Russia retains her place in the family of nations as a result of the coming Genoa conference, she will owe it largely to the operations of one man—Leonid Gregory Krassin.

Krassin is the soviet minister of commerce, railways and food. He's now in London acting as Bolshevik trade representative.

Krassin is soviet Russia's biggest man today. He's a keen business man, a railway expert, a subtle propagandist, a skilled engineer, and an electrical genius.

His hand can be seen in every economic and commercial victory soviet Russia has won—and in some of the military ones.

Krassin was born in Siberia in 1870. His native town was on the route of parties of exiles being banished to Siberia by the czar's government.

Inspired Hatred.

It was the sight of these bands of ill-clad, starving exiles, driven forward by whips, that inspired in young Krassin hatred of the czarist regime and turned him into a revolutionist.

Krassin entered a Petrograd technical school in 1887, but was expelled because of revolutionary activity. Later he was taken back and again expelled.

In 1894 he was placed under police surveillance as a dangerous revolutionist. He fled to Germany.

As an engineer he entered the service of the Siemens-Schuckert company, afflicted with the Alleghenese Elektricitäts-Gesellschaft, world's greatest electrical trust.

Krassin went back to Russia and established a branch of this electrical trust in Petrograd with himself as director. Meanwhile he was aiding the Lenin group in fomenting the revolution.

It was Krassin who induced the German to allow Lenin to travel from Switzerland through Germany to Russia, thus making possible the Bolshevik revolution.

Under Lenin, Krassin, as minister of commerce, restored the ruined Russian railways. Then he engineered trade treaties between Russia and neighboring powers.

He came to London and put through the trade treaty between Britain and soviet Russia.

Bit by bit Krassin has strengthened the position of soviet Russia here until Russia's local trade branch now requires several large office buildings.

That isn't all Krassin has done. It was largely due to his influence that Hugo Stunnes, German magnate, recently came to London to confer with British bankers and business men.

Brought Red Changes.

And Krassin is said to have had a big hand in Lenin's abandoning the strict tenets of communism.

Krassin's influence induced Lenin to offer to pay the czarist debts—a part of them.

All of these things have led British and German business men, with the active support of their governments, to start a movement for full recognition of Russia as a sovereign power and co-operation with the existing Russian government in settling its internal affairs.

Krassin's quiet looking man who might be taken for a traveling salesman. He dresses plainly, stays at cheap hotels and often carries his lunch to work in his pocket.

Death and Bombs Threaten Society Women in Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Letters demanding sums ranging from $15,000 to $25,000 have been received by prominent Washington women within the last few days. It was learned today. Agents of the Department of Justice and local detectives are searching the city for the author and policeman are guarding the homes of the women threatened.

The letters, all written apparently by the same hand, have been received by Mrs. Henry White, wife of the former ambassador to France; Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins and late Senator Stephen Elkins and mother of Senator Davis Elkins, of West Virginia, and Mrs. Mary Scott Townsend, mother-in-law of Senator Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island.

Several other women of equal prominence are understood to have received letters. The writer is understood to have threatened the recipients with death unless they complied with his demands. In some cases he threatened to blow up their homes, all of which are show places of the capital.

Mrs. White was told to place 15 $1,000 bills in a cigar box and drop it from an automobile at a certain spot. A policewoman followed these instructions, but no one appeared to get the box.

The three women mentioned decline to discuss the case.

Negro Pallbearers Threaten To Strike

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 24.—A strike of negro pallbearers, furnished here by undertakers to serve at funerals for members of their race, was threatened today. A committee which asked the chief of police if they could legally organize a pallbearers' union declared they wanted pay for their services and that they proposed to strike if they did not get it. The police head told them to go ahead and organize, but not to mix any white persons in their activities.

Mrs. Rose Hardy is reported ill at her home with an attack of influenza.

Teach, 45, Bride Of 19-Year-Old Pupil

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Mrs. Laura Spencer, preceptress of the Avon high school, admitted today in a conference with the principal of the school that she was married last October to Neil Cushing, a student in one of her classes. Mrs. Cushing is 45, and the mother of five children, one of whom is a teacher here. Her father is nineteen.

Mrs. Cushing, who became preceptress shortly after the death of her husband, Roger A. Spencer, the principal of the school, about a year ago, announced that she would resign, but Cushing intends to continue his studies until he graduates, next year.

Young Cushing first came to love his teacher when she employed him last summer to teach her how to drive a car and their attachment for each other soon became a matter of great interest to the villagers.

The marriage, it was learned today, took place in a Pennsylvania town. Another Cushing had driven Mrs. Spencer on a two-day trip four months ago.

Mrs. Cushing is a woman of very striking appearance and possesses a remarkably luxuriant growth of brilliant red hair.

Moon Is Inconsistent

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24.—The moon is too inconsistent a planet to govern date of Easter, in the opinion of Rev. M. S. Brennan, astronomer-priest of this city, who has expressed hope that the council of astronomers called by meeting in Rome next April will decide the late Pope Benedict XV for a cide to eliminate the moon as a means of determining the date of Easter.

Randolph Woman Attacked By Negro

ASHEBORO, Feb. 24.—Mrs. Roby Hinshaw, of Lever Cross township, Randolph county, was attacked by a negro, Henry Rains, last Saturday. Mrs. Hinshaw's husband was away from home at work when the tragedy occurred. According to the evidence,

Mrs. Hinshaw was at the woodpile when the negro, a notorious mulatto who lived in the same neighborhood, went into the house and scared himself. Mrs. Hinshaw carried and armful of wood and was putting some on the fire when the negro grabbed her and attempted a most unmentionable crime. Mrs. Hinshaw fought him away with wood, finally driving him away. The sheriff and his deputies caught him at his home Saturday and placed him in jail. He was tried Monday and was put in jail and bound over to court. Mrs. Hinshaw is about 45 years of age and is a woman of excellent character.

Women Victim Of N. Y. Broker

Several Prominent Socially Lose Thousands in "Mythical" Pool—Must Appear Before the Grand Jury.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Ten women, several prominent socially, who claim to have put more than $600,000 into a mythical "pool" promoted by Alfred E. Lindsey, broker, with a palatial home at South Nyack, today were summoned to appear before a supreme court grand jury Monday and help piece together the details of a remarkable story of "high finance," on which assistant District Attorney Murphy will seek Lindsey's indictment.

The list of alleged victims of the missing broker is headed by Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, divorced wife of James E. Duke, "tobacco king," who claims she entrusted $325,000 to the engaging Lindsey.

Others on the list with their contributions to the pool included Mrs. Dorothy Atwood $97,000; Miss Catherine Adams $40,000; Miss Charlotte Wilson, actress, $20,000; Mrs. W. D. Arnold, $30,000; Miss Margaret Bogart, $18,000; Mrs. Helen Burnett, $31,000; Mrs. Adelaide V. Rice, $25,000; Mrs. Josephine A. Cornells, $20,000; and Miss Florence James, $5,000.

Siren songs of quick and fabulous profits induced the women to dispose of securities they held and put their cash equivalent in Lindsey's hands, Mr. Murphy said. Lindsey's favorite story, he declared, was that he was a fellow-member of George F. Baker, Thomas W. Lamont, Charles E. Sablin, Percy A. Rockefeller, James A. Stillman and other giants in the financial district, in a millionaire domino club, where the time not spent in playing dominoes was given over to planning "big killings" in Wall street.

This club was supposed to maintain secret rooms at the Ritz Carlton hotel, to which Lindsey displayed a pass-key. It was alleged that he kept a pool operated by these men that the time not spent in playing dominoes was given over to planning "big killings" in Wall street.

The debonair Lindsey, Mr. Murphy declared, was one of the smoothest workers New York has seen in years. His home at South Nyack was one of the show places along the Hudson river, and Lindsey himself was a leader in civic affairs, having taken a prominent part in the raising of Red Cross and other funds.

But when he was "on the make," all the sympathy dropped out of his nature, according to the stories.

One of his victims—Mrs. Rice—47 years old and nearly blind, and the $25,000 she put into the pool was practically every cent she possessed.

The $20,000 Mrs. Cornells said she gave him represented the proceeds of her husband's life insurance out of which she had been supporting her four children—one a cripple.

Mrs. Atwood, who gave up $50,000 in cash and $47,000 in jewelry, has been reduced from comparative affluence to raising pedigree dogs for a living.

So far as he could learn, Mr. Murphy said the only contributor to a "domino club" pool who succeeded in getting anything back was Major Redondo Sutton, former president of the Pacific Mining and Chemical company, who happened to know that Lindsey was out on bail, under an indictment charging white slavery.

When he threatened to complain to the United States department of justice, Lindsey quickly returned his $5,000. Major Sutton told Mr. Murphy.

The white slave indictment returned in 1918, was subsequently dismissed on recommendation of the district attorney's office. Later, when a special grand jury made the dismissal a subject of inquiry the district attorney's office explained the case had been dropped because Beatrice Weille, the complaining witness, had disappeared. Police circulars, bearing Lindsey's picture and description were broadcasted at Mr. Murphy's request. The charges on which he is wanted, Mr. Murphy said, are embezzlement and grand larceny.

ESTATE OF $1,215,000
RICHMOND, Feb. 25.—Edgar S. Carlton left an estate valued at $1,215,000, according to the statement of the administrators, F. J. Carlton and the Virginia Trust company, who qualified in chancery court here today. Mr. Carlton, who was resident manager of the British-American Tobacco company, Ltd., did not leave a will. He died February 18 in this city.

FALLS 3,000 FEET TO HIS DEATH

ARCADIA, Fla., Feb. 24.—Sergeant Robert C. Washburn, of Lansing, Mich., attached to the Carlstrom aviation field here, fell 3,000 feet to his death today while attempting a parachute drop from a plane.

Sergeant Washburn attempted a feat with in connection with a two day's field program being carried out by fliers of the army base, the accident was witnessed by several thousand spectators.

Sergeant Washburn was equipped with two parachutes, both of which failed to open, when he stepped from the plane. The tail of the machine struck the first parachute, ripping it so it would open only partially and the second became entangled in the first, likewise failing to function.

Spectators said he seemed to be struggling with the tangled cords as his body approached the ground. The two day's program of aeronautical and athletic exhibition was immediately cancelled.

PIERSON FOUND GUILTY

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 24.—Carter Pierson, said to be wanted by Danville, Ky., authorities on a charge of murder was found guilty here today of second degree murder for the killing of Estion Durrance and Mrs. E. B. Pierson, his sister-in-law at Safford Harbor, near here, about two months ago.

CABINET CRISIS IN ICELAND ON BOOZE QUESTION

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Copenhagen newspapers report a cabinet crisis in Iceland on the prohibition problems, says a dispatch to the Central News from the Danish capital. The premier has resigned and is likely to be succeeded by M. Egers.

Since 1918 Iceland has been acknowledged as a sovereign state with King Christian X., of Denmark, ruling. The Parliament of Iceland in 1915 passed a measure forbidding the sale of alcoholic liquors. Previously in 1915 the Danish government had prohibited alcoholic beverages in Iceland.

JAIL SENTENCE IN W. D. DON LEVY CASE SUSPENDED

The case of W. D. Don Levy, who noted an appeal in a decision in the mayor's court when fined $50 and sentenced to 30 days on a charge of violating the Mapp act, came up yesterday in the corporation court and the same fine and sentence stood but the jail term was suspended.

Don Levy was arrested shortly before Christmas by Police Officer O. T. Cook, who found in his possession about five gallons of whisky. It was on the grounds that the search and arrest was made on private property without a warrant that Don Levy appealed his case to the corporation court.

A white slave case will come up for trial at the March term of Federal court here when the case of George Lighton, of New York, arrested in Charlottesville on a charge of violating the provisions of the Mann act, will go before the Federal grand jury. Lighton was given a hearing before Heitz Rinehart, Jr., United States Commissioner, Thursday in Charlottesville.

The defendant admitted that he had violated the federal law by inducing Mrs. Rose J. Burke, of Springfield, Ohio, to leave her home and join him here, where he is engaged in local construction work. The couple registered at an uptown hotel under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Niles and were placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Charles J. Kette, of Springfield, who followed the woman to Charlottesville. Lighton was held for his appearance at the time and placed under a bond of $15,000.

COTTON MILLS HAVE SHUT DOWN PLANTS

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 21.—Several cotton mills here will shut down tonight until Monday. The curtailment was said to be due to the condition of the cotton goods market. No general curtailment was likely, it was stated, because many of the mill corporations have orders enough in hand to warrant running at capacity. The industry as a whole has been curtailed to a large extent in the past few months, below normal.

Horrors of Wood Alcohol

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE FINKLE AND THEIR CHILD

BY DR. MINAS S. GREGORY,
Director of Psychopathic and Alcoholic Service, Bellevue Hospital,
New York, in an Interview With Edward M. Thierry for NEA Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—I have seen men die of wood alcohol poisoning. It is a frightful death. Even when it is diluted as an ingredient, mistaken for grain alcohol—in liquids sold as whisky—wood alcohol is a very terrible poison.

A drink of wood alcohol brings internal hemorrhages, blindness, convulsions, delirium—and usually death.

Hemorrhages occur in the brain and in other parts of the body. Wood alcohol acts on the blood vessels, especially the small ones. The capillaries burst.

How Recover
Very few recover from wood alcohol poisoning. It does not depend so much on the amount taken, for one person may be able to stand more than another, as it does on whether the poison acts on blood vessels in fatal spots.

Action of the poison however, depends on the amount taken. Usually symptoms appear within four or five hours.

When the victim comes out of his coma and stupor he has violent convulsions. In his delirium he acquires prodigious strength and to prevent injury to himself or others he frequently has to be tied down.

Delirium tremens is an entirely different thing—a mild thing compared to the convulsions and delirium of wood alcohol poisoning. The victim is too sick to have hallucinations.

A man blinded by wood alcohol poisoning does not usually recover his sight even if he is a fortunate exception, does not die. Sometimes the brain is affected permanently.

BY RUTH ABELING

HOBOKEN, Feb. 23.—There was wood alcohol in the whisky Eugene Finkle drank. He took one drink

Now he is groping in blindness. Finkle is 37. As a marine engineer he supported his wife, his mother and his two-year-old son, Gene, Jr.

"I'll have to start nursing again now to keep the house going," said Mrs. Finkle, who formerly was a graduate nurse.

Finkle sits all day in a big armchair, his hands dropped idly in his lap. Or he holds his small son running his hand tenderly over the child's face.

When Mrs. Finkle has time from her household work, she reads to him. Finkle's thought are chiefly of what the doctors say. There is a slight ray of hope, they tell him; he may see again—perhaps just a little, with very strong glasses.

Just One Drink
"We had been out for a walk," Finkle said, his lips tightening, "and on the way back I stopped for a drink—one drink. I felt all right until that night, when I awakened with intense pain."

The next day he was very ill but he went to work. That evening the doctor came and said Finkle had been poisoned.

"That night I thought of blindness," Mrs. Finkle said. "The first thing Gene said to me in the morning was: 'I'm blind, Louise! What will I do?'"

Mrs. Finkle's voice was emotionless as it numbered: "What could I say? It was the thing I had feared—and I was dumb. Gene blind—Baby only two years old—home to keep!"

"Gene blind," I kept repeating and I would look into the room where he sat, his hands dropping listlessly from the arms of his chair, helpless and staring."

Finkle sat like that now as she talked, his face like a stone carving. "Always we have done our Saturday shopping together," his wife said. "It is so strange now. I have to lead Gene—Baby tugging at my hand on one side and Gene on the other."

Machinery Will Not Run Without Adjustment

How about the Human Machine—the finest machine ever made? If your finger, shoulder or elbow gets out of joint, you have the part adjusted. Your spine deserves even more consideration, because it is BETWEEN the joints of the backbone where the nerves comes out on both sides on their way from your brain to all parts of your body. This thing you call life begins in your brain, the dynamo, and passes over the Nerves (the wires) to all parts of the Body.

But this life force cannot get to all parts of the body if one of the bones of the Spine are out of position, causing pressure upon the nerves.

This simple mechanical defect causes 90 per cent. of disease. Our work is to replace the bones of the spine with the bare hands.

You have tried other methods without success, now try CHIROPRACTIC—the simple, natural way to health.
